

Bev Durston has been named as a finalist in the Women in Finance Awards for Principal of the Year 2020.

The Women in Finance Awards showcases the industry's most prestigious accolades recognising excellence across the entire financial services industry. The awards pinpoint professional development and innovation, showcasing the female individuals leading the way in the industry.

Award recipients represent a true cross section of the financial services industry, recognising the contributions of the profession's most senior ranks through to its rising stars.

The finalist list, which was announced over several weeks beginning on 3 August 2020, features over 240 high-achieving professionals across 28 submission-based categories.

"This year's Women in Finance Awards is our biggest yet, with new categories introduced to capture a wider demographic of outstanding female talent," said Emma Ryan, deputy head of content at Momentum Media.

"The event represents a fantastic opportunity to shine a spotlight on those going above and beyond for their respective organisations, all while breaking down barriers and cementing themselves as among the top professionals across Australia.

"On behalf of the team, I'd like to congratulate all of the finalists. We look forward to celebrating your success."

Bev Durston, Founder of Edgehaven Ltd, an Alternatives Investment Advisor, said that she was humbled to be recognised and proud to be named as a finalist in the Women in Finance Awards 2020.

"Edgehaven's recognition for our excellent contribution to the Investment consultant industry reinforces the strength of our service and dedication to connecting with the community and engaging with clients," Bev added.
